Toluca

Toluca, which is the capital of the State of Mexico, is located an hour away from Mexico City. It is the highest city in Mexico at 8,844 feet above sea level. Toluca is known as La Bella, or the Beautiful, for its 19th century colonial architecture in the downtown area. However, today the city is better known for its highly developed industrial sector. Toluca has an active cultural life and the second highest number of museums after Mexico City. It is also known for tasty dishes, such as the surprisingly green - and good - sausage tacos.
